

Board Splits on Wage Proposal, Votes Building Levy

Wages for city employees and a levy on building permits forced another split in the Hazard Board of Commissioners during Monday night's regular meeting at City Hall.

By a vote of 2-1 with Commissioner George Feltner dissenting, Mayor Douglas Combs and Commissioner Calloway Colwell, 1. approved a $2 levy on residential building permits and a $5 levy on business building permits; and 2. rejected a motion by Feltner calling for a $1 minimum wage for all city employees, a 44-hour work week, and time and one-half for overtime.

In other business, the board: 1. splitting again with Feltner objecting, established itself under ordinance as the final appeal agency for city employees who have been fired or suspended.

2. at the request of the City Prosecutor Don Ward approved a maximum salary of $300 a month as his salary from now until Dec. 1st, unless requested for beyond that date by Ward. The position normally pays well in excess of $300 per month.

3. purchased a heavy duty, high-speed police cruiser from the Gene Baker Motor Co. 4. reduced previous $2,000 appropriation to the City Recreation Board by $500, the amount required to operate the Bobby Davis Swimming Pool. City Manager Hobart Wooten told board members the city has been operating the pool. At the time of the original appropriation, the board had reportedly planned on placing the pool under the recreation commission. The fees on building permits was passed only after a heated discussion between Feltner, and Mayor Combs and Colwell. Mayor Combs, Colwell and Curt Feltner, chairman, Planning and Zoning Board, defended the levy, arguing that the tax would place the cost of operating the P.Z.C. on the people who use it.

$1.00 Minimum Wage For City Employees Rejected 2-1 By Commission;

New, High-Speed, Heavy-Duty Police

Curt Feltner said: "We have 20 applications a month, approximately 250 a year. These are the only people using the services of the commission. The thinking of the Planning and Zoning board has been that these people should pay the cost of the board instead of having all of the people pay for it through the general fund."

Commissioner Feltner argued "it wouldn't be a good thing for the city at large." He noted that the $500 allotted from the general fund for the P.Z.C. represented but two-tenths of one percent of each city resident's tax bill.

Cruiser Purchased For Department

Curt Feltner defended the P.Z.C. noting that without it the city would have not developed a Major Street Plan, Subdivision regulations, or had the public-planning services of the State Department of Economic Security made available to the city.

The levies on building permits were recommended to City Commissioners by the Planning and Zoning Board. Controversy continued when the Board tackled two problems affecting city employees.

The hourly wage scale prepared by City Manager Wooten at the request of the Board came in for hot discussion when Feltner charged it would mean employees having to take less on the hour and working overtime to equal what they're getting now.

Feltner said his idea for the hourly wage scale, first suggested during the board's June meeting, was to eliminate overtime and provide better wages. The hourly scale, according to City Manager Wooten, was based on 1958-59 budget, previously approved by the board. Feltner charged that policemen in Hazard work for $224

a month, but that towns smaller than Hazard "start them at $260."

After Feltner made his wage motion, Mayor Combs interjected: "In making the motion, Commissioner Feltner, would you suggest or have any way of meeting the increase" costs to the city.

Feltner replied: "We spent $2,000 on a tractor. I believe the city can find a way."

Colwell noted the city had granted two wage increase within the past three years. Also causing dissension was the question of whether city employees should have the right to appeal a suspension or firing beyond the Board of Commissioners.

The ordinance, passed with Feltner voting against it, stops the right of appeal at the Board. An alternative, pointed out by City Manager Wooten, would have been an ordinance allowing the right of appeal to extend beyond the board.

Feltner charged the new ordinance will "discourage bringing new, good, personnel" into the police force. Commissioner Colwell defended the ordinance, noting: "I don't see how any man could want any more protection."

Court Issues Restraint Against 3

Charges Combs, Thomas, Maggard With Trial Practices 'Contrary to Law'

Two Perry County magistrates, Burnam Thomas and Bradley Combs, and Perry County Jailor Charley Maggard have been ordered to cease "practices contrary to the law" in the handling of misdemeanor cases.

The restraining order against the three was issued this week in Circuit Court under a complaint filed by Magistrate Babe C. Noplis, 4th District.

The order stops the three from a variety of practices outlined in Noplis' complaint as illegal.

Held Back Trials

Noplis charged that Maggard has been booking misdemeanor cases to Combs and Thomas and refusing prisoners the right to have their hearings in other courts, including Noplis'.

He said Maggard has "in more than one instance" caused prisoners to be held in jail for "two or three" days awaiting the "pleasure" of Combs and Thomas to try them, and allowing arresting officers to select the court where prisoners will be tried.

Combs and Thomas were prevented by the order from coming into the Fourth District and holding court. Noplis said the two have been holding court at the jail, taking bonds and pleas of the prisoners and accepting fines and costs.

Noplis charged: "The jailer doesn't have the right to designate" Courts, Judges or Justices for trying prisoners, and that "magistrates of districts outside the Fourth have no right to come into the Fourth and hold court."

In the complaint, Noplis charged the "practices have been going on for four or five years" and that prisoners are being deprived of a "speedy trial" and the "right to give bond" while awaiting trial.

Not Deprived of Money

Noplis noted that while the practices had not "deprived" him of any money, is "anxious to perform his full duty as a Justice of the Peace" and is prevented from "so doing by these unlawful acts."

The complaint stated that Noplis believes the public is generally interested because they are entitled to have all "Jailers, Justices of the Peace and other officers comply with the law."

State Sues To Oust Board Member

Conflict-of-Interest Suit Charges Allen With Selling Gasoline, Oil To Board

A conflict-of-interest suit has been filed here by the State Attorney General's office to remove Leo Allen, a member of the Perry County Board of Education, from office.

Allen, the suit charges, last year sold the Board gasoline for trucks and cars in violation of a Kentucky statute which prevents Board members from transacting business with the board. The suit, filed by Attorney General Jo M. Ferguson, in Perry Circuit Court specifies that Allen sold the board "gasoline, oil and general filling station services" in the amounts of $398.52 in November and $419.69 in December.

Allen, a resident of Buckhorn took office as a member of the board in January of 1957. He was to have served until January, 1961. The suit charges that in the same year, Allen acquired an interest "either direct or indirect" in the Airport Service Station, located on Ky. 80 at the Combs road. The illegal purchases were made by the board at the station.

The suit requests that Allen be removed from office.

Gill Protests Board Keeping Him In Dark On Change

Joe Gill, basketball coach at Leatherwood High School for three years, has been replaced by Delano Combs, 22. Gill will be made assistant basketball coach and head baseball coach if he accepts a contract now awaiting his signature.

The change was made known Monday night when Gill appeared at a meeting of the county school board to ask why he was not told he had been replaced as basketball coach. Combs had held his contract about two weeks before Gill knew anything about it, he said.

Combs said he began negotiating with school board officials early last spring for a coaching job.

George Caudill, who represents the Leatherwood school district, said he did not know why Gill was not informed of his replacement.

Wanted Advance Notice

"I think I should have been consulted as to my preference" of the basketball or baseball coaching jobs, Gill said. He added that he would have liked to have known earlier that he was not going to be head coach so he would have had time to find a similar position somewhere else if he wanted to.

Gill explained to the school board that he went to Leatherwood when the school was without a gymnasium, and that he has expended much personal time and effort in trying to improve athletics there.

A new $120,000 gymnasium was completed at Leatherwood last winter. Before the gym was built, Coach Gill's team were transported several miles over poor roads to practice in the old Viper gym.

"I think somebody's trying to freeze me out of a new gym," Gill told the school board.

Bowling Disagrees

School Superintendent Gilbert Bowling said he did not think any injustice has been done to Gill because his salary has not been lowered. He said that since there had been no salary decrease, it wasn't necessary to inform Gill of the coaching staff change.

Board Member Caudill said he knew of no reason why Gill and Combs could not work together satisfactorily in building an athletic program at the Leatherwood school.

Gill also seemed surprised when he found out that Combs is to receive $75 a month above his regular teacher's salary for coaching. Gill's unsigned contract allows for a little more than $61 a month for coaching, but Bowling said he intended to raise that soon.

No action was taken on Gill's complaint. Caudill suggested that everyone go home and "dream on it a while," but Gill was reluctant to leave without an explanation.

Gill is a veteran of five years of high school coaching. He went to Leatherwood for a year in 1952, and after serving in the Army, returned to that school.

Combs is a graduate of Dilce Combs High School and Wofford College at Spartanburg, S.C., where he played varsity basketball three years. He said he turned down offers from several other high schools to accept the Leatherwood position. He plans to be married in August.

Explosion Rips Roof From Home On Liberty Street

A five-room, frame house on Liberty Street was partially wrecked early this morning when a water heater in the kitchen over heated and exploded.

Glass and debris from the home of Mrs. Lora Lootens was scattered over neighboring houses from the impact of the 4 a.m. explosion. No one was hurt although considerable damage resulted to the bedroom where Mrs. Lootens' son, Ken, was sleeping.

The explosion was first reported to the Fire Department at 6 a.m.

Fire Chief Lawrence Sizemore estimated damage at between $1500 and $2000. He said the explosion was probably caused by a faulty safety valve on the heater.

Dishes and glassware were destroyed, kitchen cabinets ripped off the wall, and a cabinet in the Lootens' bedroom tossed across the room.

2 Bootleggers Arrested In Raid

Two "notorious" Knott County bootleggers were arrested last week in a raid at their places of businesses in Lackey, State Detective J. E. Combs, reported yesterday.

Arrested were Ed Napier and Agnel Jones. Both were released under bond the same night by Knott County Judge Pro Tem William Sturgill.

Detective Combs reported large quantities of beer and wine were found at Napier's place, and beer and whiskey at Jones'.

Assisting in the raid were State Detective Orlester Mahoney, Sgt. William Mitchell, Sgt. James Cox, and Troopers Jerry Combs, Delmar Lafferty and Sylvester Walters.

County Board Hires Office Staff

A motion to re-hire most of the county school board office staff was finally approved Monday night after board members forced the removal of two names from the original motion.

The names of Doug Gabbard and Elbert Fields were removed from the motion when it became apparent in the June board meeting that the motion would not pass as long as they were included.

Fields and Gabbard are now being considered for teaching positions.

Board members objected to other names in the motion at the June meeting, but they allowed them to pass when Gabbard and Fields were removed.

Board Member Out of Room

George Caudill was out of the room at the time Paul Campbell moved that the recommended office staff be hired. When he returned, he passed his vote and school superintendent Gilbert Bowling entered his vote as "yes" in the minutes of the meeting.

The office staff members who were agreed upon are Nola Williams, head clerk; Mabel Allen and Louise Couch, clerks; Earl Begley, attendance officer; Sim Bowling and Troy Campbell, mechanics; Emory Collins, Chester Burton, Kash Eversole, Hollie Riddle, Hager Hall, and Arlie Adams, all maintenance men.

Several teachers are expected to be hired at a called meeting soon. Superintendent Bowling asked the school board for a motion to hire a long list of teachers he had recommended earlier in the meeting. Again Elbert Fields name, which was included in the recommendation, caused a disagreement among the board members.

Over-heated Wires Cause Fire Call

Fireman last night answered a call caused by over heated wiring in the apartment of Lester Farler, above the Colwell Motor Co. building on East Main.

No damage resulted. Over-heating was caused by wires leading to a ceiling light in a bedroom of the apartment.

Asks Payment of Old Debt

Taylor Witt, a contractor, appeared before the school board requesting payment for materials he said he sold the county when the Witt and Brown Contracting Company was helping build the M. C. Napier School. He said the county has owed him $521.86 since 1952. Superintendent Bowling and the school board said they would check old minutes for verification of the purchase, and pass on Mr. Witt's request at the next scheduled meeting.

The meeting lasted from 5:30 p.m. until 11:30 p.m., lengthened unexpectedly when Joe Gill, basketball coach at Leatherwood High School, appeared before the board with a complaint. (See Story Elsewhere)

More Commissioners

Special Meeting

Two vacancies on the Hazard Board of Commissioners, created by an act passed during the last session of the Kentucky legislature, will probably be filled here during a board meeting at city hall, Tuesday night, at 7 p.m.

After suggesting five names for the vacancies, Mayor Douglas Combs and Commissioners Calloway Colwell and George Feltner agreed during Monday night's regular board meeting to postpone action on the two appointments.

Suggested by the board as possibilities to fill the vacancies were R. W. Gibson, former commissioner and wholesale grocer, Carl Morgan, Hazard attorney, Dr. Eli C. Boggs, local physician, Bernard Faulkner, automotive dealer, and Robert Terry mortician.

The appointees will serve until Nov. 4 when the offices will be filled by election.

Tuesday's meeting was agreed upon by the board after City Attorney Ernest Faulkner advised commissioners that the two vacancies could be filled immediately by appointment.

An act of the last legislature increased the number of commissioners in cities of a third class from two and mayor to four and a mayor. Hazard is a third class city.

Candidates for the two offices must file declarations before Aug. 6, 45-days before the Sept. 20 primary. The four candidates with the highest number of votes in the primary will run for the two vacancies in November.

Coroner Probing Woman's Death

An investigation into the death of Mrs. Sally Greer is being conducted here by Coroner George Archer, city police said today. Mrs. Greer died under "unusual circumstances" last night one hour after being admitted to the Mt. Mary Hospital.

Police reported she was "foaming" at the mouth and her "stomach was swelled" when she was admitted.

Found Her In Room

Mrs. Greer was found in her room at the Crown Hotel on East Main by an unidentified boarder at 6 p.m. She died one hour later at the hospital.

Police headquarters reported that a check of Mrs. Greer's room turned up large quantities of medicine. A boarder said Mrs. Greer had been complaining of pains in her chest recently.

Police said a partially-consumed glass of ice water and box of pills indicated she had probably taken a pill shortly before she died.

Body At Engle's

The body was taken to the Engle Funeral Home. Funeral arrangements were incomplete as of this morning.

She is survived by two children, Cecil Elmer Sparkman, of Marion, Va., and Mrs. Clara White, of Hazard; two sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Lewis, of Louisville, and Mrs. Dessie Merade, of Noblesville, Ind.; and a brother, Hence Fields, of Cumberland.

Rotary Club Works For International Understanding

J. Foley Snyder

Rotary clubs in 110 countries and geographical regions throughout the world are united in an endeavor to promote international understanding, good will and peace. That was the message of J. Foley Snyder, governor of district 674 of Rotary International, in addressing the Rotary Club of Hazard yesterday, following a conference with local Rotary officers and committee chairmen.

In addition to the activities of the more than 9,800 Rotary clubs within their own communities to promote this objective, Mr. Snyder explained, Rotary International has awarded grants of more than $2,600,000 in the past 11 years through its program of student fellowships, which enable outstanding college graduates to study for one year in countries other than their own, as Rotary ambassadors of good will. Since 1947, when this program was established, 1,076 Rotary Foundation Fellowships have been awarded to students in 65 countries for study in 43 countries. Miss Patricia Anne Williams of Fort Thomas, Kentucky received the District 674 Fellowship last year. She has just completed one year of study in music in Switzerland. After a brief vacation she will visit the clubs in District 674 and relate her experiences in Switzerland.

"With fellowship and service to others as its keynote, Rotary provides a common ground for 462,500 business and professional executives throughout the world, regardless of differing nationalities or languages or political and religious beliefs," the Rotary district governor emphasized.

"In addition to the promotion of international understanding," Mr. Snyder continued, "special emphasis is being placed by Rotary clubs in this district, which includes 41 Rotary clubs in Central and Eastern Kentucky."

Mr. Snyder urged the local Rotarians to attend the Rotary district conference to be held in Ashland in April, and to make plans for the club to be well represented at the 50th annual convention of Rotary International, which will be held in New York City next June.

LETTER FROM MRS. JOHN SHERMAN COOPER

Senators Cause Wifely Indecision

No Discussion Of Politics

Well, here is July again, better known in Washington as "the dog days." Gone are the times that Senators and Congressmen go back to their states for week-ends or make commencement speeches. Now, it is just plain hard, hot work to finish the pending legislation as rapidly as possible. Many of the wives have gone home with their children but there is still a group of us who regularly telephone the Senate in the late afternoon to try to find out from the Pages, who seem to be better informed than anyone (perhaps because they're longing to go home too) if there is going to be a night session and if so, what time they expect to recess. This is the hour of indecision in cooking. Pots and pans are taken on and off the stove. That steak that you thought would revive your husband is put in the deep freeze because likely as not the answer comes that "We'll be lucky if we get out at 10:30."

Getting Off The Floor

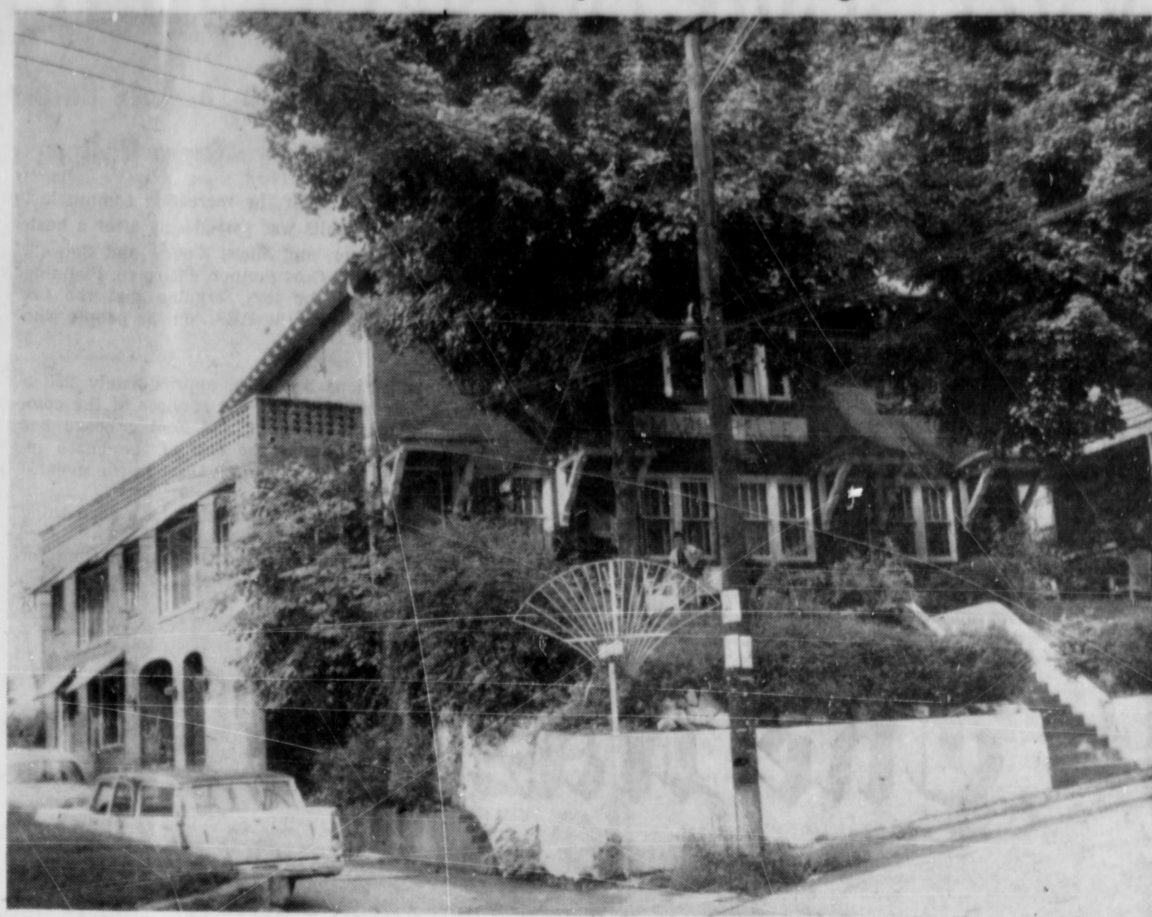

The next move is to go up to the Senate and try to persuade your husband to leave the floor and get something to eat in the Senate dining room. If you're lucky you get him to do this, otherwise you sit in the Gallery, very hungry, wondering how long men can talk without eating. There's a bright side to this picture, however, and every now and then you know ahead of time that there's going to be a late night session. From an observer's point of view, these sessions are usually more interesting and lively than the ones in the day time because all of the Senators are on the floor, for there are no Committee meetings and their offices are shut.

When Democrats and Republicans are blasting each other's positions on the floor, just above them in the Gallery, Republicans and Democratic wives are sitting side by side, keeping up the unwritten law of no discussion of politics. I have often heard both Republican and Democratic wives say, with great courtesy, as their husbands are sounding off at each other, "What an interesting talk your husband is making!" If your husband is in the Senate, you very quickly realize the community of interests and forbearance between the two parties, particularly in the wives. We're all in the same boat—everyone has gone through a campaign, which gives us a bond of understanding that you cannot have unless you have been in the jungles of politics. We are all sympathetic to a wife whose husband is running for reelection, no matter what party they belong to.

Visit With Mrs. Garcia

Mrs. Cooper, my mother-in-law, was staying with us when Miss Chloe Gifford invited us to the headquarters of the General Federation of Women's Clubs to meet Mrs. Garcia, wife of the President of the Philippines. We set off together to the morning affair and I was asked to take my turn in pouring coffee. I had never met Miss Gifford before although I had heard so many fine things about her and want to report to you that she looked charming in a simple white lace dress, and received Mrs. Garcia and the rest of us in the highest tradition of Kentucky hospitality. I can well understand why she was elected to this high office, and I am so happy that I will have the opportunity of seeing her here in Washington. I'm giving a lunch for her in July as I would like her to meet some of the Senate wives and Mrs. Nixon. Mrs. Garcia and the ladies with her wore their national Philippine dress, which is usually made out of their native Pineapple cloth, very much like sheer organdy.

ACP Re-Opened For Sign-up In Knott County, States Mr. Cornett

Cost-sharing for conservation practices for use of liming materials, rock phosphate and pasture renovation is available now, Mr. Daniel Cornett, Chairman of the local ASC Committee announced today. Particular emphasis is given at this time of the year to those practices which may be performed during the summer and early fall. Cost-sharing to farmers has been made available. Soil tests are required. Farmers desiring to apply for cost-sharing should take a soil sample of the field to be treated or seeded to the county agent's office. Hundreds of acres of grass sod in the county should be renovated and additional seed used. Legumes may be seeded in August and September for counties in this part of the state, with fairly good results on grass and fields which have been worked with a disk. Cost-sharing for use of fertilizers will be given according to needs as shown by soil tests.

Mr. Cornett pointed out that the best conservation practice is that of obtaining a good vigorous growth of a grass-legume cover. Lime is an important element in promoting growth of vegetative cover.

By using soil tests farmers will be enabled to use lime in fields where needed. Plant foods become more available when acidity conditions of the soil are proper. Lime may be used following a small grain harvest on sod fields, or to land which will be worked and seeded this fall or in the spring of 1959.

Mr. Cornett emphasized that requests for cost-sharing should be made at the county ASC Office before beginning the work in order to be eligible for ACP cost-sharing.

The visit commemorates the 50th anniversary of the visit of the Great White Fleet to San Francisco during its cruise around the world. A full-scale Naval review will be staged as the Fleet enters the Bay.

Following a long weekend of recreation, including many civil-sponsored events, the Fleet will put to sea on July 7 for a five day striking force exercise, code named "Blue Bolt."

The operation involves 36 ships, 26 squadrons of naval aircraft and over 22,000 personnel. Ships and planes at sea will form fast-moving "Blue" attack carrier teams which will strike out against simulated mainland targets. "Orange" defensive forces consisting of shore based Naval aircraft and submarines will try to outwit the invaders.

Striking force exercises are designed to give advanced training to personnel preparing to deploy to the U.S. Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific.

Twin Rocks Bible Camp

Forty-one teen age young people had a wonderful time of fun and fellowship at Twin Rocks Bible Camp, located five miles up the Middle Fork of Mason's Creek, the week of June 9. Not only was the recreational program packed with all kinds of sports and games where the young folks had team competition and individual tournaments, but the whole program was filled with variety and challenge. Team rivalry ran high between the Chippewas, Cherokeses, Mohawks and Apaches. The greatest high lights, however, were in the morning Bible Classes and evening Chapel services where the teen-agers were challenged with the claims of Christ. Dale Hives from Illinois, gave forth the word of God. The camp was climaxed with an inspiring fagot service at the Camp Fire.

The Indians theme continued at the Children's Camp which began June 16, with sixty-five campers registered. Here again the Camp was buzzing with activity. Uncle Col Beukema from the Appalachian Bible Institute made the truths of the Gospel plain to the boys and girls.

County Budget Makes Best Out of Nothing

The most that can be said about the 1958-59 Perry County budget is that it represents the sincere efforts of the County Judge, County Attorney, magistrates and other county officials to make the most out of nothing.

Plagued by the unpaid bills of the previous administration, including the $49,000 flood disaster loan, and faced with the prospect of being shorted over $65,000 by the Federal Office of Civil Defense, it is a wonder that the present administration could devise a budget.

Budget Reflects Condition

The county's deplorable financial condition is reflected in the new budget. Most of the county salaries were forced to take cuts, either in salaries or materials. Other governmental services are to be handicapped for lack of funds.

We would not have our readers believe that all of these slashes came about with full support of the officials involved. In some instances, the salary reductions were grudgingly received. Nobody, including us, ever wants less money than what we got before for the same job. That's human nature.

The new budget is higher than last year's—primarily because of the $19,000 in salaries voted the magistrates earlier this year. Even this item is subject to change. The Kentucky Court of Appeals must rule on the act that opened the door of the county's treasury to the magistrates.

The budget provides little hope for county social agencies.

Hospitals Get More?

Hospitals are getting more for indigent care—but the amount won't offset the increased costs of operation or expenses resulting from the growing demand for medical services.

The position of dog warden has been abolished. A good riddance since apparently the warden's capacity for rounding up dogs was only surpassed by the reproductive habits of the countless strays that roam the countryside and city.

Funds for education and libraries were cut by $2,000, a situation which hardly reflects favorably upon the county. It probably couldn't be helped, but we wonder now if Johnny is ever going to be able to read?

And so it goes, one item after another. May we be so bold to say that we get what we pay for! And thus it follows

LETTER

Commissioner Stresses Importance of Curfew

To the Editor:

As you readers know, the City has been without a curfew law to keep children off the streets at night since May 5, 1958. To show that removing the curfew was a mistake and that it should be re-instated, I have written to several responsible persons, including FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, State Safety Director Don Sturgill, and the Mayor of Knoxville, Tenn. requesting their advice.

Mayor Jack Dance of Knoxville was kind enough to refer my letter to him to the Director of Public Safety in Tennessee, David M. Garrison. In a reply to my letter, Mr. Garrison said:

"Most parents agree the curfew is an aid because it gives them standards as guides."

In his letter, Mr. Garrison mentioned a study of curfew laws and juvenile delinquency recently carried out in major cities in California and he commented: "I am happy to say that several California cities report this law the most effective they have ever had toward curbing juvenile crimes."

Mr. Garrison also mentioned an incident where the curfew law was directly responsible for forcing delinquents and petty criminals out of the City of Knoxville to ply their illegal trade somewhere else.

Mr. Garrison sent me a copy of the Knoxville curfew ordinance, which I plan to present at a City Commissioner's meeting sometime in the near future with the hope that my fellow commissioners will have the foresight, wisdom, and common sense to follow the example set by other cities who comment so favorably on the desirability of a curfew restriction.

I feel that the situation should be made known to the public since the public is having to bear the result of doing away with the much-needed curfew. My fellow commissioners would leave it to the parents to control their children at night. While this is well and good, the plain fact is that some parents cannot or will not keep their children from roaming the streets at night. And as Mr. Garrison said, parents need and welcome standards as guides in handling their sons and daughters.

Sincerely,

GEORGE FELTNER

Chappell's Dairy has kicked off the drive for a new truck for the Open Door Children's Home with a donation of $50. Sincere thanks, Howard, for taking the leadership.

Again, may we encourage you to help the Open Door Children's Home replace the truck which was destroyed two weeks ago. Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Ragsdale have been helping you—by taking in orphaned mountain children and molding them into outstanding citizens.

Any amount you can donate will be appreciated. Send donations to Truck Fund, Open Door Children's Home, Hazard post office, or care of this newspaper. We'll see to it that the Ragsdale get the money. And please, won't you let us know if you donate. We're anxious to give credit to those people who are helping in this drive.

First Victim of Electric Chair In State, Died In 1911

Frankfort, July 10—Few persons this year are celebrating July 8—the 47th anniversary of Kentucky's first legal electrocution.

Prior to that date in 1911, all criminals condemned to death were sentenced to hang. Since then, 161 persons have died in the electric chair at Eddyville State Penitentiary.

The first was a young man found guilty of murder by a Marion County jury. He was granted a 30-day stay of execution by Acting Gov. W. H. Cox because of a delay in installation of the electric chair, which served until about a year ago when a new one replaced it.

Looking on from a cell across the corridor was a Lincoln County man who was to become the chair's second victim.

A reporter, describing the first electrocution, wrote:

"In the progress of the execution, the death of the prison physician, Dr. H. H. Moss, was narrowly averted by timely warning not to touch the condemned man's arm while the current was passing through his body. Just after the first shock, before the current had been released, Dr. Moss came near meeting a similar death when he started to touch Buckner's arm to feel for pulsation. But for a timely warning from the chief engineer from the electric room, as the doctor's hand was within a short distance of the arm, he too would probably have met death."

Since a provision of law that persons convicted of rape be hanged in the county where the crime was committed was repealed in 1938, all legal executions in Kentucky have been by electrocution.

A bill to abolish the death penalty in the Commonwealth died in the 1958 Legislature.

Wild West Showman Rates Earp Good Lawman, Fast on Draw

(Author's note: Mr. Ed Hiler and his Western variety show appeared in Collin's Field Monday night, sponsored by the Fraternal Order of Police. Upon hearing about Mr. Hiler and some of his interesting personal associations, this writer decided that an interview with the man might be very worthwhile. It was. With apologies for the repeated first person references, the following is the text of our interview and bits of description of the Westerner.)

About one p.m., the little, wizened, tough looking old man walked into the newspaper office without speaking. He wasn't more than five feet, six inches tall. He had on striped pants and a solid green shirt and no hat.

"Are you Mr. Hiler?" I asked him. "Ed Hiler?"

"That's me. I was supposed to talk to someone here." He spoke without smiling and stood before my desk, rubbing his chest as if he were in pain. He pulled up a chair and sat down, looking like a little boy except for the lines in his leathery face.

"Make it fast. I'm kind of sick this morning," he said.

Wyatt Earp In California

"Yes sir. It won't take long. Did you know Wyatt Earp, Mr. Hiler?" I had already heard that he once was a friend of the famous lawman, but I wanted to hear him tell about it.

"Yes, I knew Wyatt Earp. I knew him when he made his fortune in the California gold fields. He died in 1929." Mr. Hiler rubbed his chest again and looked toward the office floor. The red chair seemed much too large for him.

"And how old are you, Mr. Hiler?" He didn't look a day over 50, nor did he walk any older than that, and I was very much surprised when he said he was 78, born Apr. 2, 1880 in Granger, Tex. But I was glad he was that old. It made his story much more credible.

"Could you describe Mr. Earp for me, sir? How did he impress you?"

Mr. Hiler looked straight at me for the first time and leaned closer, apparently so he could hear me better. I had to repeat my question, and then he said:

"He was a good lawman. Very fast with a gun. He always wore a handle bar mustache. When he died he looked much different because his mustache was short."

"I see. And what about Bat Masterson. Did you know him?" Mr. Hiler seemed impatient and I thought he was about to leave, and I felt a slight surge of panic because there was a lot I wanted to ask him.

"Yes, I knew Bat Masterson. He later became a sport writer for a New York newspaper. I saw him a lot with Wyatt Earp."

Then Mr. Hiler began volunteering information. I gladly let him talk.

love the great out-doors that our Commonwealth offers you, I would say that the least you can do is to show men that are willing to make such great sacrifices in accepting these offices that you will fall over backward in helping them to promote a program not only for your benefit, but also for your children. Fellows, won't you give a little thought and help in regard to your favorite pastime. Kentucky can and will be as big as you want it to be, it can keep growing with your help.

OFF TO CAMP

Will be some thirty-five boys from our area that will spend a week of the greatest camping experience in their lives. Through your efforts of the senior Fish & Game Clubs you have made this possible. They will leave here on July 14th, boys early in the morning. I know that you will need no second warning.

You that have attended this camp in the past will not need any advise in regard to it. Have found that all of you are always ready to go back. I dare say that there is many of you that would like to make this trip, due to various reasons you are not able to make it this year. I wish that it were possible for each parent to visit this camp during the season when your child was there just to see for yourself how they are cared for. Yes, to see the interest that they have in the program, it is hard to believe that so much can be accomplished in such a short time. I look forward to the day when Kentucky can take care of all kids at no cost to them, to spend a few days at such camps as Earl Wallace and Camp Currie. Of course the most important item of such camps is money. Just recently many of our hunting and fishing licenses has increased. To me this is the very cheapest item of your trip. If you could donate a quarter here and there to help the youngsters of our state to become better acquainted with our laws, I am sure that you are helping to develop better CITIZENS of each and every one of your COMMUNITIES. Yes, to help these kids to enjoy and to be able to attend some CAMP where he can look forward to a VACATION as well as EDUCATION of our NATURAL RESOURCES. TO ALL YOU BOYS THAT WILL MAKE THE TRIP THIS YEAR, I WOULD LIKE TO TALK TO ALL OF YOU AFTER YOU GET BACK, come in and tell me what you think of the CAMP.

Fabled Indian War Chief Died As Preacher of the Gospel prisoner in the Fort Sill, Oklahoma prison. Geronimo related his life story to Mr. Hiler, and he later used the information in helping advise in the making of the movie, "I Killed Geronimo."

Geronimo was Cherokee, according to Mr. Hiler and contrary to the popular notion that has always associated the fabled Indian war chief with Apache heritage. Mr. Hiler said Geronimo told him his Cherokee parents took him West as a small child. When his parents were killed, members of the Apache tribe took him and raised him as an Apache, waiting until he was a man to tell him of his true ancestry. Geronimo died preaching the gospel, Hiler said.

When he quit talking about Geronimo, I asked him to tell me about his days in the movies and the time he spent with the Texas Rangers. The man spanned his movie career in a sentence:

"I spent four years with Tom Mix, four years with Ken Maynard, two with Buck Jones and two with Raymond Hatton."

He said he was in the Texas Rangers from 1900 until 1912. His father, also a Ranger, was killed in 1912.

Role In Western Movie

Then I asked Mr. Hiler again about the more recent movie, "I Killed Geronimo." He had already told me about helping to write the movie. He looked irritated when I brought the subject up again, but I persisted and he began talking again, and again clutching his side. I guessed he was rather sick.

He said he had a small role as a member of the cavalry in "I Killed Geronimo."

"I got killed three times in 20 weeks" while filming that picture, he said. "The cavalry was larger when we finished the picture than when we started, after all the shooting."

Without warning, then, Mr. Hiler inter-I have to go," and with a slight nod of thanks rupted himself and declared: "I'm in a hurry. in my direction, the little friend of perhaps three of the Old West's most famous characters, Wyatt Earp, "Bat" Masterson and the Indian, Geronimo, eased himself out of the Herald office and disappeared up the street.

Recently Fess Holcomb lost his glasses while working around a bulldozer and had to buy a new pair.

Tucker Cornett killed another snake. A rattler, where the highway was being cleared.

Miners Vacation Almost Over

The miners vacation almost over, the first week for most of the folks in Slomp. Some of the men like me are having to help take care of the gardens and with canning. I notice Lindsey Chapman is washing his trailer home this morning. Well maybe conditions will be better at home when we go back to work.

Melton Smith took his children to London to see the zoo there this past week.

Rev. George Hagan Dies At Home

Dan Noble

The Rev. George Hagan, one of our oldest Regular Baptist Ministers, was found dead, Saturday morning at his home in Vicco by his step-son, Floyd Combs. Brother George was the moderator of the little Home Church on Breeding Creek and had been for many years preceding his death.

Brother George was living alone since the death of his wife some time ago. Mr. Combs went to the church Saturday morning thinking brother George was already there and finding out he wasn't found he came back to his front porch. I can say with a clear conscience that we have lost one of the greatest leaders in the Old Regular Baptist ranks. I have traveled with him for twenty years or more and he was a great pillar to lean on. He will be greatly missed by the Baptist family. By the great counsel he always gave us I wish to say this to his bereaved family and all his followers, that we will miss brother George here but let the life he lived here lead us to victory.

The Weakness Of Strength

ONE OF THE GREATEST paradoxes of Christian living is the fact that strength is sometimes found in weakness. In the relationship of Jesus and Paul we find this truth clearly stated: And he said unto me, My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness. Most gladly therefore will I rather glory in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me.

Therefore I take pleasure in infirmities, in reproaches, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses for Christ's sake: for when I am weak, then am I strong. (2 Corinthians 12:9, 10). This sounds almost foolish. The idea that weakness makes us strong is almost self-contradictory, yet it is one of the great Christian truths. Not only is it true that weakness is strength, but the opposite is equally true: strength is weakness. This means that our personal strength is our greatest weakness and our personal weakness can be our greatest strength. This is precisely the sense of Paul's statement, "When I am weak, then am I strong." Out of strength comes weakness and out of weakness comes strength.

Two things come to my mind that bear out this point. I recall as a boy hearing a group of persons discuss the class of physicians who usually live longest—not the strong, robust people, but those who most of their lives have some chronic weakness. This chronic ailment causes them to protect themselves and care for their health, whereas those who are stronger often abuse their health in such way that suddenly sickness and death strike them down. The point is that the frail man is constantly on guard and his stronger brother overcome by his own lack of watch care.

The second incident is even more forceful. In the city of Edinburgh there stands today the ruins of an ancient castle. In the olden days Edinburgh Castle was one of the strongest fortresses in all Scotland, built for protection on a hill. The enemy could approach from three sides without too much difficulty, but on the fourth side was a cliff so steep that no one could approach the castle from it. The face of the cliff was so sheer that the castle walls at the top of it were almost a continuation of it. Yet Edinburgh Castle fell to the enemy. A daring soldier and a small band of companions worked their way up the steep escarpment and then over the towering walls at the top. As they expected, no guard had been placed on that side, for it was considered so strong it did not require a guard. Conversely, the three weaker sides were so well guarded that the enemy did not dare attack those points. Thus the strongest side became the weakest of all.

Why do you sometimes see a mighty man of God fall, while some less dominating man stands on unshaken? Because the mighty man was so strong that he felt sure the devil would never overcome him; the man who appeared weak probably realized his own weakness so much that the first appearance of temptation scared him to the bosom of Christ for protection and strength. Many Christians who fall are surprised to find that it could happen to them. Many are overcome at the very point that hinders them least, for they leave that point unguarded. Their very strength is their greatest weakness. Paul admonishes us on this very line.

Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall (1 Corinthians 10:12). It is no shame to realize our own weakness or even to recognize the specific weak points of our human nature. Indeed, not to do so is gross folly, for human nature at its best is too weak to combat the spiritual forces of evil. True strength comes from Christ within us.

Ye are of God, little children, and have overcome them: because greater is he that is in you, than he that is in the world (1 John 4:4).

Now let me repeat, and this would be well for all of you to remember: your weakest point is your strongest point left unguarded, and your strongest point is your weakest point fortified by the power of Christ.

TRUTH-AD FOR THE UNCHURCHED

The good NEWS belongs in the NEWSpaper, but LOOK in the BOOK it comes from, and SEARCH for the CHURCH that obeys that book most fully.

Is it possible to fall from grace? Yes, the Bible mentions some who fell from grace in Gal. 5:4, but that doesn't mean they fell from salvation; it means they fell from the true doctrine of grace.

There are many things people can fall from. They can fall from knowledge of the truth, from the Gospel, from attainment, from their profession, from the church, from the will of God, from blessing, from power, from close fellowship with God, from usefulness, from fruitfulness, from peace, and from joy. But no one can ever fall from the state of being saved. Read Romans 8 all the way through. When you read about people falling, notice what it is they fall from.

(The sole aim of this column is to give sufficient guidance to sincere unchurched people. This column is addressed to both saved and unsaved people who have not yet been added to a church. Not all unchurched people are unsaved; some are already regenerate.)

Look for a TRUTH-AD every Thursday.
